

Scott A. "Scotty" Boehm
Senior Intelligence Advisor for Overseas Contingency Operations
Department of Defense Inspector General

Mr. Boehm assumed his duties as the Senior Intelligence Advisor for Overseas Contingency Operations in November 2015. He provides advice to the DoD Inspector General and plans intelligence evaluations and reviews to improve intelligence cycle performance for the warfighter. Mr. Boehm travels regularly to Afghanistan, Iraq, Kuwait, Qatar, and the European and Pacific Theaters to discuss DoD operational and intelligence challenges with the most senior DoD officials. He also interacts with Congress and the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO).

Mr. Boehm was born and raised in Martins Ferry, Ohio. He attended the University of Notre Dame on a four-year Army ROTC scholarship, and graduated in 1986 with a degree in Philosophy. Mr. Boehm received a Regular Army commission in the Army Aviation Branch and earned his rating as a Blackhawk pilot. He served on active duty for 10 years in Germany, Cyprus, and Ft. Campbell, Kentucky, as an Aviation and Military Intelligence officer.

After resigning his commission in 1996, Mr. Boehm worked in the Pentagon as an Army Staff Intelligence Officer and at the Defense Intelligence Agency as a Military Intelligence Analyst. In 2001, Mr. Boehm began his Inspector General career at the DoD Inspector General as both an Evaluator and Project Manager leading intelligence evaluations. During his DoD IG tenure, Mr. Boehm conducted the post mortem of the Ana Montes espionage case. In 2005, when Congress authorized the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, he moved to the Office of Inspector General, where he served as the first Assistant Inspector General for Inspections. In 2007, he founded the Intelligence Community Assistant Inspector General for Inspections Working Group. The Working Group's Charter, which he authored, established a collaborative process to conduct IC-wide evaluations of intelligence issues utilizing the statutory and administrative authorities of all 13-member Departments and Agencies. While at the ODNI, Mr. Boehm led IC-wide inspections on diverse topics including information sharing, acquisition oversight, advanced geospatial intelligence, terrorist watchlisting, and the President's daily brief.

In 2010, he transferred to the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency Office of Inspector General where he again served as the Assistant Inspector General for Inspections. In 2012 and 2013, Mr. Boehm twice led benchmarking efforts through the Council of the Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency (CIGIE). He gleaned "Best Practices" for annual project planning; alternative reporting formats; and measuring savings and return on investment for inspections, evaluations and performance audits. Mr. Boehm briefed the results of the first benchmarking effort at the CIGIE IG Conference in 2013.

Mr. Boehm holds a Master's Degree in Public Policy Management from Georgetown University, is a graduate of the Federal Executive Institute, and a Certified Inspector General.
