OIG Selection-Oversight Committee Selects Carol J. Breece As Broward's Next Inspector General

The Broward Office of the Inspector General (OIG) Selection-Oversight Committee (SOC) selected Carol “Jodie” Breece to be the next Inspector General for Broward County and its 31 municipalities. The SOC unanimously voted to select Ms. Breece at its annual meeting today. Her term will begin on May 2, 2023.

John W. Scott, Broward’s first Inspector General, previously announced he was not seeking another term when his current contract expires.

Ms. Breece has been with the OIG since 2012, first as Ethics Counsel and then as General Counsel. She has been an adjunct faculty member teaching public service ethics in Florida International University’s MPA program since 2015. Ms. Breece was a state prosecutor for 17 years, including nine years as a Chief Assistant Statewide Prosecutor, and for three years ran her own law practice concentrating in civil and criminal white collar defense. Her law degree is from The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., and her B.A. in Criminal Justice is from the University of Maryland at College Park. She is Board Certified in Criminal Trial Law by The Florida Bar, AV Preeminent Rated by Martindale-Hubbell, a Certified Fraud Examiner, and a Certified Inspector General. She is a member of the board of directors of the national Association of Inspectors General.
